

Based in Upper Austria, WINTERSTEIGER AG is an international mechanical and plant engineering group with a global workforce of roughly 900 people. Our entire organization is geared towards consistent growth. WINTERSTEIGER is a world leader in field trials technology, thin-cutting, ski service & rental. To keep up with the demands of our continued expansion, WINTERSTEIGER is seeking applications for the following position(s).

We are looking for an enthusiastic candidate to join our planter and harvester team at our headquarters in Ried im Innkreis.

Development Engineer for Mobile Agricultural Machinery

with potential to progress to Team Leader

Your responsibilities:

- Assisting with the development of a module-oriented product range
- Designing and developing bespoke modifications for customers
- Leading development of certain projects
- Supporting product development from initial design through production approval to end of life
- Planning, supporting, and assisting with field trials

Your profile:

- Technical qualification with a specialization in mechanical engineering or mechatronics from a technical university/college or university of applied sciences, or equivalent qualification
- Experience of mechanical engineering desirable
- Knowledge of agricultural engineering would be beneficial
- Good communicator with a diligent and structured approach
- Good English skills
- Willingness to travel (max. 10%)

What we can offer you:

We are looking for an ambitious engineer who is ready to take the next step in their career, and who is keen to take on real responsibility for projects.

We offer a competitive salary, long-term prospects in a modern working environment, as well as attractive benefits that only a successful international business can provide. For legal reasons, we would like to make you aware that the collectively agreed gross minimum wage for this full-time position is € 45.000 p/a, but we are of course willing to pay significantly more for the right candidate.

We look forward to receiving your application!
